General Information

Anyone who uses opioids, whether obtained by prescription or illegally, is at risk of an opioid overdose. Opioids affect the part of the brain that controls breathing, so when too much of an opioid is taken, breathing slows or stops. Naloxone reverses the effects of an opioid overdose temporarily, restoring breathing in a few minutes. It is not a narcotic, is non-addictive, and has no effect if opioids are not present. Naloxone is a safe medication, with few side effects.

Saskatchewan residents who are at risk of an opioid overdose and/or might witness an opioid overdose, such as friends and family of people who use opioids, are eligible for free training and a free Take Home Naloxone kit. The training covers overdose prevention, recognition, and response, including how to administer naloxone.

It's important to note that Naloxone treatment itself does not replace the need to seek immediate medical attention. Call 911 immediately if you suspect an overdose.

Each Take Home Naloxone kit contains:

- One zippered case
- Three 0.4mg doses of naloxone, in ampoules
- Three auto-retractable safety syringes: 3cc – 25g x 1”
- Three ampoule breakers
- Three alcohol prep pads
- Pair of non-latex gloves
- One-way rescue breathing barrier mask
- Steps to respond to an opioid overdose

Take Home Naloxone Kit Locations

Locations are listed in alphabetical order by community. If you do not see your town/city, look for the next closest community. If hours are not listed, please contact the facility directly for more information.

The Take Home Naloxone Program is available in sites run by the Saskatchewan Health Authority, partner Community Based Organizations and pharmacies.
