The Saskatchewan Degree Authorization Process

On October 29, 2012, The Degree Authorization Act was proclaimed, The Degree Authorization Regulations were approved, and the Saskatchewan Higher Education Quality Assurance Board (SHEQAB) was established.

The Act and Regulations establish the process by which new degrees become authorized in Saskatchewan. The process comprises the following three phases of activity.

Phase I – System Coordination Review

The System Coordination Review is conducted by the Ministry of Advanced Education. Its purpose is to ensure that a proposed new degree program is aligned with provincial needs and priorities and does not unnecessarily duplicate programming that is already available from other institutions in Saskatchewan.

Phase I begins with the submission of an Application for Authorization, in which the applicant institution must articulate the benefits of the proposed program to Saskatchewan, the anticipated demand for the program in the labour market, the institutional fit of the program, and program details such as the period of study, program capacity, tuition, courses and methods of delivery.

Each Application for Authorization is posted on the ministry's website for 30 days to enable other post-secondary institutions, professional and regulatory bodies, and the general public to view and comment on the proposed new program. The applicant institution is given the opportunity to respond to any feedback received during the posting process. The ministry then reviews the program relative to the criteria prescribed in section 8 of the Regulations and provides its findings, along with the public input and the applicant's response to public input, to the provincial Cabinet. Cabinet determines whether to refer the Application for Authorization to the SHEQAB for quality assurance review purposes.

The Phase I review process is conducted on an annual basis beginning May 1st. All Applications for Authorization submitted by April 30th are forwarded to Cabinet as a group so that Cabinet can consider all new degree proposals at one time, rather than sporadically throughout the year.

Phase II – Quality Assurance Review

When an Application for Authorization is referred to the SHEQAB, the Board first determines the type of quality assurance review required. The Board may decide that a full review, involving both an Organizational Review and a Program Review, is required. An Organizational Review assesses the capacity of the applicant institution to deliver the proposed program and determines if the institution's policies and practices meet approved quality assurance standards. A Program Review involves a more detailed look at the program itself.

Alternatively, the SHEQAB may decide on a partial review, which may consist of a Program Review only; a Program Review and certain elements of an Organizational Review; or certain elements of both a Program Review and an Organizational Review.

Based on the findings of the quality assurance review(s), the SHEQAB will recommend to the Minister of Advanced Education whether the program should or should not be authorized. The time required for the SHEQAB to conduct its reviews is not prescribed and will depend on many factors, including the nature of the proposed program, the preparedness of the applicant institution, and the availability of expert reviewers to conduct Organizational and Program Reviews on behalf of the Board.

Phase III – Authorization and Monitoring

If the SHEQAB recommends that a program be authorized, the minister can either issue or refuse the authorization. The minister may refuse the authorization with Cabinet approval. In such an instance, the applicant will be given an opportunity to appeal the decision. If the SHEQAB recommends that the program not be authorized, the minister must refuse the authorization.

When a program is authorized, there will typically be terms and conditions attached to the authorization. The ministry and the SHEQAB monitor authorized programs to ensure that institutions adhere to the terms and conditions of authorization and continue to meet quality standards. Cyclical reporting is part of the monitoring process.

The Organizational Review Process

An organizational self-evaluation is the first step in the organizational review process. Through the self-evaluation process, an institution will assess its policies and practices against the standards and criteria presented in this document. The institution will then present its findings to the SHEQAB in the form of an Organizational Self-Evaluation Report.

The Organizational Self-Evaluation Report will be reviewed and evaluated by the SHEQAB, at which point the institution may be asked to make revisions or provide additional information. The report will then be reviewed by a panel of external experts selected by the SHEQAB. The panel members conduct a site visit to the applicant institution and prepare an evaluative report for the Board's consideration.

The standards are the overall requirements that must be met; the criteria are the factors or means by which the Board and the external review panel will assess if the standards have been met. In conducting an organizational review, the SHEQAB and the external review panel will be guided, but not limited, by the criteria; other issues or questions may emerge during the course of a review and the institution may be requested to provide additional information.

NOTE: The standards and criteria apply to institutions seeking authorization for baccalaureate and graduate-level (e.g., master's and doctoral) programs. The standards and criteria specifically applicable to graduate programs are noted as such and are supplemental to all other standards.

Canadian Degree Qualifications Framework

In 2007, the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada (CMEC) endorsed a Ministerial Statement on Quality Assurance of Degree Education in Canada (the CMEC Statement). The CMEC Statement, to which Saskatchewan is a signatory, includes the Canadian Degree Qualifications Framework (CDQF), which describes the relevant characteristics of degrees at the bachelor's, master's, and doctoral levels, as well as procedures and standards for assessing new degree-granting institutions and proposed new degree programs.

Institutions seeking authorization for a baccalaureate level program must meet the Quality Assurance Review Process Bachelor's Degree Level Standard, which describes the characteristics of a bachelor's degree and stipulates the demonstrable learning skills and level of mastery required at the bachelor's level. Similarly, institutions seeking authorization for a graduate level program must meet the Quality Assurance Review Process Graduate Degree Level Standards, which describe the characteristics of master's and doctoral degrees and stipulates the demonstrable learning skills and level of mastery required at these levels. Both the bachelor and graduate degree level standards are consistent with the CDQF.

The standards presented in this document generally align with the Procedures and Standards for New Degree Program Quality Assessment presented in the CDQF.

Acknowledgements

The ministry and the SHEQAB wish to acknowledge, with thanks:

- the Government of British Columbia and the Degree Quality Assessment Board of British Columbia for allowing the use of its Degree Program Review Criteria and Guidelines to inform the development of the baccalaureate degree standards and criteria;
- the use of materials published by other provincial quality assurance agencies in Canada, including the Campus Alberta Quality Council, the Postsecondary Education Quality Assessment Board of Ontario, and the Maritime Provinces Higher Education Commission, in the development of the standards and criteria for graduate degree standards and criteria;
- the offices of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research at the University of Regina and the College of Graduate Studies and Research at the University of Saskatchewan for their assistance in the development of graduate degree standards and criteria; and
- the use of materials published by the Campus Alberta Quality Council pertaining to quality assessment standards for programs delivered in blended, distributed or distance modes.

Submission Guidelines for Applicants

The following guidelines are intended to assist applicant institutions with the preparation of a Program Self-Evaluation Report. Applicant institutions are encouraged to contact the SHEQAB Secretariat prior to commencing the self-evaluation process.

Relationship between Organizational Review Standards and Program Review Standards

Appendix A outlines the organizational and program standards used by the SHEQAB and shows how the two sets of standards align. When preparing for a Program Review, an institution that has already undergone an Organizational Review may be able to draw from materials prepared for the Organizational Review, particularly materials related to institutional and academic policies and procedures.

Appendix B is a list of policies that an applicant institution should have in place and be prepared to address during the course of an Organizational or Program Review. For ease of reference, the policies are cross-referenced with applicable standards. Institutions may wish to use the list as a planning tool or checklist to assist in the preparation of the Program Self-Evaluation Report and when preparing for the external panel review. Please note that the list is not definitive; external review panels and/or the SHEQAB may identify other operational areas/policies during the Program Review.

Length of Submission

Submissions should be complete and concise. A limit of 5,000 words is suggested to prevent the report from becoming too long and unmanageable for consideration by the SHEQAB and the external review panel.

Structure of Submission

The report should be structured to align with the numbering of the standards as follows:

1. Executive Summary
2. Program Review
3. Program Design, Content and Delivery
4. Program Resources
5. Faculty and Staff
6. Academic Policies, Admissions and Credit Transfer
7. Contingency Plans in the Event of Program Discontinuation
8. Credential Recognition and Nomenclature.

Pagination

For ease of reference, all pages within the submission (including appendices) must be numbered.

Saskatchewan Public Post-Secondary Institutions

Where requirements pertain to items that are governed by Saskatchewan legislation or fall under current government agreements and/or reporting requirements, institutions may simply reference the relevant section of the legislation or report(s). When referencing a report, please indicate the name of the document, its date of publication, and the relevant page number(s).

Use of Appendices

The use of appendices is encouraged to present supplementary information and/or information considered proprietary. For example, when providing information on policies, please include only a summary of the policies in the main body of the submission and attach full policies as appendices. Examples of proprietary information include referee letters; letters of support which contain personal information, such as individuals' names and addresses; and financial information. Appendices should be cross-referenced to the applicable standard(s) and criteria.

Use of Links

The use of links to information housed on an institutional website is permitted; however, they should be used carefully. The overuse of links can make it difficult to review the document. Ensure that links are active and a hard copy compilation of all linked documents is included with the submission.

Use of Previously Prepared Documents

If the institution has undergone a previous quality assurance review (e.g., for accreditation purposes), previously prepared documentation may be submitted for consideration; however, please ensure that materials are updated and formatted to adhere to these guidelines.

Electronic and Hard Copies

The Program Self-Evaluation Report should be submitted as an Adobe PDF document. In addition, one complete hard copy of the Report and all referenced documents (including linked documents and appendices) must be submitted to the SHEQAB Secretariat at the following mailing address:

Secretariat, Saskatchewan Higher Education Quality Assurance Board (SHEQAB)
1120 – 2010 12th Ave
Regina, Canada S4P 0M3

Permission to Consult with External Agencies

Institutions must provide SHEQAB with written permission to consult with any professional, accrediting or regulatory body named in the submitted documentation. Permission should be provided in the form of a letter from the institution's legal counsel. (See Standard 1.2.)

Out-of-Province Applicants

An out-of-province applicant must specifically address how the provision of the proposed program will occur in Saskatchewan and identify any differences between Saskatchewan delivery and delivery in the home jurisdiction.

Release of Information

Submissions will be subject to the provisions of *The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act* and to any SHEQAB policies regarding the release of information.

5.1 Faculty and Staff

Standard 5.1

Faculty and staff are qualified to achieve the institution's mission and academic goals. The institution's human resource development and management policies and practices are appropriate and effective.

Graduate Degree Standard 5.1 – Faculty Scholarship and Research

Faculty, as a group, provide intellectual leadership. In doctoral and research-oriented master's programs, the scholarly activity and intellectual atmosphere of the academic unit is based on the number and quality of significant publications or creative research output of the members and on the unit's continuing insistence on originality and excellence. In the case of programs in professional areas, there is a solid basis of appropriate scholarly or creative activities.

Criteria:

- a) The institution has academic and other staff in sufficient numbers:
  - to develop and deliver the program in each of the fields of specialization identified in the program;
  - to act as research supervisors, where appropriate; and
  - to meet the demands of the projected student enrolment.
- b) The institution has full-time faculty in sufficient numbers to:
  - ensure quality standards are maintained;
  - ensure a high degree of consistency and continuity of curriculum development and delivery; and
  - develop and deliver the program in each of the fields of specialization identified in the program.
- c) The academic credentials held by faculty are appropriate to the courses taught.
- d) The institution has appropriate policies pertaining to faculty, including policies that:
  - define the academic/professional credentials required of faculty teaching all courses in the program, and where appropriate, serving as research supervisors and/or members of examining committees, project committees, review committees, etc.;
  - demonstrate that the institution's capacity for granting degrees is supported by an appropriate balance between continuing or ongoing faculty appointments and temporary appointments;

- demonstrate there is due diligence on hiring and provisions to guard against fraudulent credentials (e.g., the institution has evidence on file of the highest academic and/or professional credential claimed by faculty members, supplied directly from the granting agency/institution to the institution);
- clearly address faculty appointment and employment conditions, including workload (e.g., duties and responsibilities; teaching and supervision loads; research and scholarship expectations; availability to students), promotion, termination and performance standards;
- describe the institutional reporting structure;
- require the regular review of faculty performance, including student evaluation of teaching and/or supervision;
- identify the means of ensuring that faculty knowledge of the field is current through professional development, scholarship and research;
- support the professional development of faculty, including the promotion of curricular and instructional innovation, as well as technological skills, where appropriate; and
- address an equitable, diverse and inclusive faculty culture.

Supplementary Criteria for Institutions Proposing a Graduate Program:

- e) The intellectual engagement of the faculty, as a whole, is maintained through regular participation in scholarly activities, the validity of which has been verified by peer review. Most members of the unit are involved in ongoing research and publication of findings, or other scholarly activity as appropriate. The commitment to graduate students, as noted in Standard 7.2, requires a faculty involved in the scholarly life of the department and the institution.
- f) Evidence of faculty accomplishment is demonstrated through peer review and critical analysis, with peer-adjudicated publication as the predominant way of assessing scholarly achievement in traditional disciplines. Grant success is another indicator. For some fields of study, evidence of professional achievement and intellectual leadership may be inferred from other scholarly or creative activities.
- g) The institution has administrative structure and policies to facilitate the expectations in research and scholarship (e.g., sabbatical leaves, research leaves, in-house grants to support research, a system which supports research grant applications to external agencies, recognition of research time demands in the assignment of teaching loads, recognition of research output in salary rewards, etc.).
- h) The institution has policies pertaining to comprehensive/candidacy examination requirements and thesis/dissertation oral examination committees and procedures, where applicable.
- i) The scholarship, research and creative activities policies and practices of the institution were developed and administered under the direction of a representative committee.
- j) The institution is committed to preserving the freedom of faculty in research, including the communication of results, and has an appropriate policy on the ownership of the intellectual products of employees and students.

- k) The institution has appropriate policies and procedures related to ethical conduct and reviews, management of research funds, safety and biohazards, responsibility and accountability, use of human research participants, animal care and maintenance, technology transfer and commercialization, etc., that meet all applicable accreditation and/or agency standards and requirements.
- l) As an organization offering graduate programs, the institution has a research culture within which graduate study can occur and which is fundamental to maintaining and enhancing high quality graduate programs. The institution has a clear commitment to a research philosophy which promotes the depth and breadth of knowledge, both within the field/discipline and also outside the field/discipline when necessary.

Submission Guidelines for Institutions Proposing a Graduate Program:

- Demonstrate that a critical mass of research-active faculty exists, and, in the case of a research-based program, that a strong research focus exists within the unit, as evidenced by grants, publication, seminars, etc.
