

Online Student Loan Application

Need Help Spousal Instructions 2020-21

Spousal Demographics

All references to “spouse” refer to legal or common-law spouse/partner. Completion of this section of the application does not mean the spouse is co-signing for your student loan. You are responsible for repayable student loans issued as a result of this application.

If you wish to have your spouse contact the Student Service Centre and/or the National Student Loan Service Center about your application please submit the Consent to Release Information Form.

Make sure your spouse reviews the information you have entered. Your spouse is responsible for reading and signing the declarations. You will print this information when you are finished entering your application and are required to submit the signed declaration to the Student Service Centre if this is your first application.

If your spouse does not have a valid Social Insurance Number (SIN) you may submit a paper application. Applications are available at saskatchewan.ca/studentloans.

Spouse Study Income

If any of the answers to the questions change during your study period, contact the Student Service Centre immediately to update the information.

Previous Year's Income

Processing of the application may be delayed if income tax returns were not filed with Canada Revenue Agency. Your spouse's income from the previous tax year will be obtained directly from Canada Revenue Agency.

If your spouse did not file an income tax return, indicate the total of all income received in that year from all sources. This includes child benefits, Social Assistance, Employment Insurance, disability and pension benefits, investment income, dividends, employment income, Workers' Compensation, Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development funding, child support, maintenance, training allowances, etc. If you have been out of school for 10 or more years and your spouse's income for the current year will be less than the previous year's income, indicate the estimated amount of gross income from all sources for the entire 2020 calendar year. We will use this income to determine grant eligibility.

Spouse Study Period Information

If your spouse is attending full-time studies and applying for student loans, indicate the program start and end dates.

If any of the answers to the questions change during your study period, contact the Student Service Centre immediately to update the information. If your spouse is making government student loan payments (i.e., Canada-Saskatchewan Student Loans), you can send a letter to Student Service Centre advising of the total amount of the government student loan payments during your study period.
