

Employment Standards Formal Complaint Form

Information collected in this form can be used by the Ministry of Labour Relations and Workplace Safety in matters pertaining to the administration and enforcement of all legislation under its responsibility. Employment Standards may provide a copy of this complaint form to the employer about which you are complaining. Please see page 5 for more information about the collection and use of information for an employment standards complaint.

Generally employees have up to 12 months after the date wages were due to file a wage claim. Recovery of wages is limited to wages payable within either the 12 months before the claim is made or the 12 months after the end of employment. Refer to section 2-89 of The Saskatchewan Employment Act for more details.

Not all workplace complaints should be made with Employment Standards at the Ministry of Labour Relations and Workplace Safety. For example:

- employees in a unionized workplace may need to file a complaint with their union, as the issue may be covered in the collective bargaining agreement;
- employees working outside of Saskatchewan should file a complaint with the employment standards agency of the province where that work is performed;
- employees working in an industry regulated by the federal government (for example employers involved in First Nations government activities, banking, air transportation, telephone and cable systems, grain elevators and seed mills, uranium mining and processing, or licensed inter-provincial trucking) should file a complaint with the Federal Labour Program (Employment and Social Development Canada); and
- independent contractors are not covered by Part II of The Saskatchewan Employment Act as they are in business for themselves and are not employees under this legislation.
- contact the Occupational Health and Safety Branch ohs.general@gov.sk.ca regarding a workplace safety issue; and
- contact the Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission regarding discrimination in the workplace based on protected characteristics under The Saskatchewan Human Rights Code.

Employees trying to obtain a record of employment (ROE) should contact Service Canada.

Please call Employment Standards at 1-800-667-1783 if you have questions or concerns about making a complaint, including determining which regulatory agency to file a complaint with.

Please note that the employer has 14 days to provide final payment of wages. Therefore, some claims are valid only after that 14-day period has elapsed.
