RULES OF COURT/RÈGLES DE PROCÉDURE
COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH FOR SASKATCHEWAN
(Practice Directives)

CRIMINAL PRACTICE DIRECTIVE NO. 8
SECTION 525 DETENTION REVIEWS<sup>1</sup>

Effective: July 1, 2021

REFERENCE: CRIM-PD NO. 8

- 1 All applications made pursuant to section 525 of the Criminal Code and section 30.1 of the Youth Criminal Justice Act shall be in Form A<sup>2</sup>.
- 2 The application shall be completed by the person or institution having custody of the accused [the institution] and filed with the Court at the judicial centre of Prince Albert, Regina or Saskatoon whichever is closest to the location where the accused is in custody.
- 3 Detention Review Management Chambers [DRM Chambers], is held each month at the judicial centres of Prince Albert, Regina and Saskatoon. The dates of each of these judicial centres' monthly DRM Chambers is published on the Court's website.
- 4 Upon receipt of the application, the local registrar will complete a Notice of Detention Review in Form B that sets the application for the next scheduled DRM Chambers. The local registrar will seek a production order from a judge that requires the attendance of the accused via closed circuit TV [CCTV] on the date and the time set out at the bottom of Form B unless otherwise ordered.
- 5 The local registrar will send a copy of the completed Form B that includes the production order by fax or email to:
  - the accused in care of the institution;
  - the accused's lawyer, if known;
  - if the accused's lawyer is unknown or if the accused is not represented by a lawyer, the head office of the Saskatchewan Legal Aid Commission [Legal Aid];
  - Regional Crown closest to the judicial centre; and
  - the institution.
- 6 Upon receipt of the completed Form B from the local registrar, the institution shall provide the accused with a s.525 Detention Review Information Sheet prepared by the Public Legal Education Association [PLEA].
- 7 The local registrar, in addition to sending Form B, will send to the accused, the accused's lawyer, or Legal Aid, a Do You Want a Detention Review form, in Form C, that is to be completed by the accused or their lawyer and returned to the local registrar within seven days of its receipt.
- 8 If the accused or the accused's lawyer confirms in Form C that the accused does not want a detention review, the local registrar will notify the Crown and the institution that the production order and chambers appearance is cancelled. The presiding judge may then determine the result of the application summarily and issue an order based on the documents filed.
- 9 If the accused or the accused's lawyer does not return Form C or if the accused or the accused's lawyer confirms in Form C that the accused wants a detention review, the matter will be spoken to in DRM Chambers on the date set out in Form B, or such other date set by the Court.

<sup>2</sup> Section 525 places an obligation on an institution that is holding an accused in pre-trial custody to, in certain circumstances, apply to the Court for a hearing to determine whether continued detention is justified.
See R v Myers, 2019 SCC 18.

10 Unless the Court otherwise orders if an accused is represented on the application by a lawyer or if an accused indicates in Form C that they do not want a detention review then the accused is not required to attend DRM Chambers and the local registrar will notify the institution that any production order made respecting the accused's appearance in the matter is deemed cancelled. In any event, the lawyer representing the accused on the application is required to appear in DRM Chambers and at any subsequent hearing.

11 The Crown shall complete a Crown Detention Review Information Sheet in Form D which must be served upon the accused or the accused's lawyer and filed with the Court prior to the date the matter is set to be spoken to in Form B.

12 If at the DRM Chambers appearance the accused or accused's lawyer requests a substantive hearing to review the accused's continued detention, the Court will set a hearing date without delay.

13 If an application is set down for a substantive hearing:

(a) the Crown shall prepare a summary of the evidence it expects to call at trial unless a transcript of a preliminary inquiry on the charges related to the detention of an accused is available. The summary shall be delivered to the accused or accused's lawyer and filed with the Court at least three days before the scheduled substantive hearing date;

(b) the local registrar will obtain a certified copy of the Provincial Court file including certified copies of the relevant Informations;

(c) the local registrar will obtain a transcript of any prior show/cause and/or bail review hearing, if any has taken place;

(d) the local registrar will obtain and deliver to the institution a Court order to produce the accused to attend the substantive hearing;

(e) the Court may order a Bail Verification and Supervision Report or an updated Bail Verification and Supervision Report.

14 At the substantive hearing to review an accused's continued detention, the Court may consider:

(a) the documents and evidence described in paragraph 13;

(b) any additional credible or trustworthy information which is relevant or material to the Court's analysis.

The proceeding shall be recorded and form part of the Court record.

15 Any production order issued by the Court to produce the accused to attend proceedings in the Court of Queen's Bench does not terminate any existing warrant authorizing the institution to hold an accused in custody before trial, nor any remand warrant requiring the accused to be remanded to Provincial Court or Queen's Bench. The original warrant authorizing the institution to keep the accused in custody before trial shall remain in effect either until the expiry of that warrant or the Court orders the release of the accused with or without conditions.

DETENTION REVIEW INFORMATION FOR ADULTS

(pursuant to section 525 of the Criminal Code)

What is a detention review?

If you have been on remand for 90 days before your trial has started, you are able to have your detention reviewed by a Court of Queen's Bench Judge. A detention review is like a bail hearing in that the Judge looks at whether you should stay in custody. What makes it different from a bail hearing is that if the Judge decides you should stay in custody, the Judge can direct that an earlier court date be set if there has been unreasonable delay.

What a detention review is not

A detention review does not replace a bail hearing or take away your right to have a bail hearing if you have not yet had one. A detention review does not replace your right to apply for a review of a bail hearing decision in which your release was denied.

What are your rights?

You decide whether your detention will be reviewed after being on remand for 90 days. The jail must apply to the Court to review your detention unless you do not want that to happen.

If you do not want a detention review, you can waive that right in writing on a form called "Do You Want a Detention Review?" that will be given to you. If you fill out and sign that form saying you do not want your detention reviewed, the Court will not review your detention.

Before filling out and signing this form, you should talk to your lawyer.

What is the Process?*A. If you want your detention reviewed

After the jail applies to the Court to review your detention, you will receive from the Court two forms:

1. Notice of Detention Review; and
2. Do You Want a Detention Review?

If you have a lawyer representing you, these forms will also be sent to your lawyer.

The Notice of Detention Review says what the date of your first appearance is.

In the "Do You Want a Detention Review" form, mark an X on the line in the form that says you want a detention review. Sign and date the form. You will then appear in Court by closed circuit TV [CCTV] on the next detention review Court date.

What happens at your first appearance?

This first appearance is not your hearing date but instead when you will speak to a Judge. The Judge will explain the process and answer any questions you have.

You can then decide:

- whether you want a date set for your detention review
- whether you want to adjourn until the next chambers date to get legal advice and / or think about what you want to do
- whether you do not want to have your detention reviewed.

What happens during the detention review hearing?

During the detention review hearing, to decide whether or not you should remain in custody, the Judge will consider things like:

- What is your proposed release plan
- The risk you will not come to Court when required
- The safety of the public, witnesses and complainants
- The seriousness of the offence(s)
- The strength of the case against you
- The length of the sentence you could receive if you are convicted
- How long have you been in custody
- When is your trial or preliminary hearing set for

B. If you do not want your detention reviewed

You will still receive these two forms:

1. Notice of Detention Review; and
2. Do You Want a Detention Review?

You can waive your right to a detention review in the “Do You Want a Detention Review” form by marking an X on the line that says you do not want a detention review and consent to the dismissal of the s.525. Also sign and date the form.

The appearance on the date in the Notice of Detention Review form will then be cancelled.
