Executive Summary

The Province of Saskatchewan, through the Saskatchewan Housing Corporation (SHC), has entered into a 10-year, cost-matched funding agreement with the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) under the National Housing Strategy (NHS). The 10-year agreement will invest approximately $585 million of provincial and federal funding to protect, renew and expand community housing¹ and support Saskatchewan's priorities related to housing repair, construction and affordability.

This Action Plan covers the period from April 1, 2022, to March 31, 2023. SHC's goals focus on helping those in greatest need by making housing more affordable, providing housing options and strengthening partnerships with the housing sector. These goals align with the goals of the NHS. SHC will explore mixed-income and mixed-use approaches to housing (involving the non-profit/co-operative housing sector and private sector), the renovation and repair of existing units in the housing portfolio, re-investment in community housing, home repair programs and affordability support.

Targets under the NHS will be achieved through a balance of new projects and programs and existing programming² to serve people with low incomes in need of housing. Activities undertaken during this Action Plan include the following³:

- 850 units in community housing will receive investments to provide capital improvements.
- Approximately 100 Indigenous housing units coming off subsidy⁴ will continue to be offered in good condition.
- 350 households will receive support through the Shelter Enhancement Program for victims fleeing domestic violence and the Repairs Program to help homeowners with low incomes maintain safe, accessible and adequate housing.
- Approximately 400 new units will be developed across the province through the Rental Development Program, investments in homeownership (e.g. Habitat for Humanity) and the development of housing for people with disabilities.
- Approximately 3,781 households with low incomes in housing need will be supported through the Saskatchewan Housing Benefit.

² Programs delivered under the NHS do not represent the total level of programs delivered or housing supported through SHC. For more information, including additional programs that SHC delivers, please visit the Government of Saskatchewan website.
<https://www.saskatchewan.ca/government/government-structure/crown-corporations/saskatchewan-housing-corporation>

Introduction

On April 18, 2019, the Saskatchewan Housing Corporation (SHC), on behalf of the Government of Saskatchewan, and the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) signed the CMHC – Saskatchewan Bilateral Agreement under the 2017 National Housing Strategy Agreement.

The National Housing Strategy (NHS) strives to maintain the existing supply of community housing and ensure access for those in greatest housing need. Saskatchewan will use funds provided under the NHS to maintain, improve, renew and expand community housing, as well as support priorities related to affordability assistance.

The Agreement provides the province with funding over the 10-year span of the NHS (April 1, 2019, to March 31, 2028) and commits the federal government and the province to working together to address housing need in Saskatchewan. It also sets out the terms and conditions of the federal funding and outlines program requirements, targets and outcomes.

Three housing initiatives are cost-matched through the NHS: Saskatchewan Priorities, the Canada Community Housing Initiative and the Canada Housing Benefit. In addition to these three cost-matched initiatives, the NHS also includes initiatives that are being developed by the federal government. These initiatives are guided by a human rights-based approach to housing. CMHC is leading, and will deliver, the NHS federal initiatives.

This Action Plan provides a strategic framework that outlines Saskatchewan's housing objectives and will guide housing initiatives for April 1, 2022, to March 31, 2023. Proposed programs and program funding allocations under each initiative (Saskatchewan Priorities, Canada Community Housing Initiative and Canada Housing Benefit) may be modified or amended, with agreement of CMHC, over the course of the Action Plan, depending on Saskatchewan's social and economic environment.

The actions and outcomes described in this Action Plan are only those associated with housing initiatives and funding requirements under the NHS and do not include the entire suite of programs and funding that the province delivers.

The Action Plan includes three sections:

- 1. Saskatchewan Context;
- 2. Housing Initiatives; and
- 3. Targets and Outcomes.

Section 1: Saskatchewan Context

For vulnerable households to be successfully housed, it is important to provide a range of housing options and supports. SHC provides a broad array of programs to address the housing needs of people with low incomes, including families, seniors, Indigenous peoples, people experiencing or at risk of homelessness, people with disabilities and people who have difficulty accessing and maintaining tenancy due to mental illness, addictions or other similar barriers.

While recognizing the marketplace as the primary vehicle for the provision of housing, SHC promotes independence and self-sufficiency by providing housing and housing services to people who could not otherwise afford or access adequate, safe and secure shelter. SHC works with federal and municipal governments, builders, lenders, non-profit organizations and housing authorities to provide, incentivize and promote affordable housing.

SHC regularly reviews the community housing portfolio to find opportunities to better address current needs and align the portfolio with emerging pressures, such as urbanization, seniors living independently for longer periods of time and increased affordable housing needs among singles, women, Indigenous peoples, people with disabilities and multi-generational households. Adjustments to the portfolio provide opportunities to ensure that any replaced or repurposed housing better suits those most in need.

SHC faces the challenge of addressing the varying housing needs of all people in need within the province, including residents living outside the largest urban centres. Almost half of the population lives outside the four largest cities.⁵ This population is widely dispersed throughout the province and includes remote, rural and northern communities.

People living in rural and northern Saskatchewan have diverse housing challenges. These areas experience small or declining populations, increased costs for goods and services and limited housing options. In the smaller rural and northern areas of the province, with little to no private rental market, government-owned rental units are the only housing option in some communities. High demand for limited housing has led to long waitlists. In areas where rental markets are weak or non-existent, homeownership may be a more viable option, even for families with low incomes.

SHC, along with its northern partners and the housing sector, are working together to find innovative solutions to reduce housing pressures in the north. The Northern Working Group was established in November 2013 and consists of stakeholders from northern Saskatchewan, representatives from New North (northern mayors and councillors) and SHC. The Northern Working Group's goal is to have a range of housing options for northern residents and to work towards establishing a resale housing market. Recommendations from the Working Group have centered on promoting housing planning, increasing community capacity and creating homeownership opportunities. These goals have been the basis for new northern housing initiatives developed by SHC.

The Government of Saskatchewan assists people at risk of homelessness across the province by connecting them with various supports, including rental assistance and housing support services through government and community organizations. SHC invests in the construction and renovation of shelters for victims of domestic violence, which help people by providing safe, temporary housing and by connecting individuals to other services.

Over the past several years, SHC has taken a more targeted approach to funding housing initiatives by aligning its objectives with provincial priorities, strategies and action plans where increasing the availability of affordable rental housing is identified as a key action. SHC's investments support Saskatchewan's Growth Plan: The Next Decade of Growth 2020-2030, Saskatchewan's Disability Strategy, Poverty Reduction Strategy and Mental Health and Addictions Action Plan. These investments increase community capacity to help Saskatchewan people in greatest need access affordable, safe, secure and stable housing and the supports they may require to remain successfully housed.

SHC seeks ways to best use available housing programs, funding and services while ensuring that its housing portfolio remains sustainable for the future. The targeting of programs is informed by current and future housing need, as well as regular consultations with SHC's partners. This information also informs SHC's efforts to be financially sustainable through proper management of assets and other available resources.

Saskatchewan is facing expiring operating agreements and aging housing infrastructure. Under the Social Housing Agreement (SHA), non-profit, co-operative and SHC-owned housing is maintained through 25- to 50-year operating agreements. The number of agreements that are expiring is expected to peak during the 10 years spanned by the NHS. Many of these units require ongoing capital repair and replacement, with this need continuing to grow as the buildings age.

This provides an opportunity for SHC to review the current portfolio and re-examine who is being served and the benefits they receive. Through initiatives under the NHS, SHC will continue to develop strategies to sustain the existing portfolio to contribute to the long-term viability and sustainability of the sector while serving those in greatest need.

SHC's goals focus on helping those in greatest need by making housing more affordable, providing people-centred housing options and strengthening partnerships with the housing sector. These goals align with the goals of the NHS. The objectives will be reached by exploring mixed-income and mixed-use approaches to housing (involving the non-profit/cooperative housing sector and private sector), renovating, repairing and repurposing existing units in the housing portfolio and re-investing in community housing, home repair programs and affordability support.

Socio-Economic Trends and Housing Need

Having a safe, stable place to call home is important for Saskatchewan individuals and families to succeed. The first three years of NHS investments have helped to eliminate and reduce housing needs, but more work remains. While Saskatchewan has been negatively impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, much of the context and priorities detailed in Saskatchewan's first Action Plan remains the same.

SHC will continue to serve Saskatchewan people in greatest housing need. Households in housing need typically have low-incomes or face other housing-related barriers and have challenges obtaining or maintaining adequate, affordable and/or suitable housing.

It is estimated that more than 51,800 Saskatchewan households continue to be in core housing need. Between 2006 and 2016, Saskatchewan's core housing need⁶ was 13.4 per cent, mainly due to affordability challenges, but suitability and adequacy also contributed. About 70 per cent (36,000) of Saskatchewan's core housing need is found in urban areas, with a majority in either Regina or Saskatoon. Almost half of those in core housing need are family households⁷.

The extent to which the COVID-19 pandemic has increased core housing need is unknown, but it can be assumed that the health and economic position of vulnerable households has been disproportionately impacted.

Core housing need may increase in the near future based on population and immigration projections. In Saskatchewan, projections show an aging population, as well as a growing young Indigenous population. International immigration is also expected to increase in the near future which may result in an increased need.

SHC categorizes households into three major groups: seniors, family and single/other households without children. Currently, more than half of SHC's clients are seniors, closely followed by families with children.

The percentage of senior-led households (aged 65 or older) in core housing need remained steady at 17.5 per cent from 2011 to 2016. Although the population data suggests an increased need for affordable senior housing, SHC currently has a number of vacancies in seniors' units, suggesting the portfolio does not match the need. Initiatives to adjust the portfolio to better meet current and future needs are being explored.

SHC is currently focused on supporting seniors facing affordability and accessibility challenges through programs like the repair programs under the Saskatchewan Priorities initiative.

Research indicates that seniors overwhelmingly prefer to continue living in their homes as they age. Repair programs help seniors stay safely in their homes longer, by providing affordability relief, support for adaptations to improve accessibility and assistance in maintaining the adequacy of their homes. SHC will also continue to collaborate with local agencies to provide support services to seniors and enable them to stay in their homes.

⁷ Family households include couples with children, lone parent families and mixed families.

The majority of family households with children are lone parent families, which are predominantly female-led. A significant number of female-led families are Indigenous. Children in lone parent families are more likely to experience poverty. Maintaining affordable social housing for families with children is important to provide children a safe, secure and stable place to call home.

A quarter of Indigenous households in Saskatchewan are in core housing need; this figure has remained steady since 2011. Indigenous homelessness is a significant concern in Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Regina, and a growing concern in the north. SHC will continue to build and renew partnerships with Indigenous groups to provide affordable housing targeted to Indigenous populations. This includes efforts to identify and coordinate opportunities for Indigenous groups to access other federal funding initiatives.

In addition to serving people with low incomes, SHC focuses on persons who are unable to access or maintain stable housing due to one or more characteristics that create barriers to housing. These persons often need supports and/or services in order to obtain or maintain stable housing. This includes, but is not limited to, households with persons who have physical disabilities, mental health issues, addictions issues, behavioral issues or a number of these issues concurrently.

Vulnerable populations, and particularly women within these populations, face challenges with regard to their personal, social and economic security. Individuals and families experiencing homelessness or who are at risk of homelessness are also among the most vulnerable groups in the province. SHC partners with other ministries, community partners and local governments in initiatives to support people to successfully access and maintain housing.

Although it is important to monitor the trends and needs of specific groups that make up Saskatchewan's population, they may comprise only a portion of the total population in need. Saskatchewan takes an inclusive approach when providing housing to those in need. SHC focuses on people with low incomes, with a special interest in those who have difficulty attaining and maintaining housing. This strategy is applied when determining projects under both the Saskatchewan Priorities and the Canada Community Housing Initiative.

Livable and Inclusive Communities

SHC will continue to support the stability of the community housing sector and help community housing providers achieve greater operational efficiencies and better responsiveness to tenant and community needs. SHC will also continue to explore options to meet affordable housing needs across the province, such as supporting mixed-income housing.

The benefits of mixed-income housing include social inclusion and neighborhood revitalization, with cost-neutral buildings that are sustainable and less reliant on government funding. The creation and promotion of mixed-income communities may require partnerships with municipalities, the non-profit sector, developers and landlords to ensure successful development of affordable housing.

Investments through Saskatchewan Priorities and support to community housing through the Canada Community Housing Initiative will contribute to livable and inclusive communities.

Through SHC's proposal calls, proponents are encouraged to develop housing options that are affordable and allow easy access to health services, education, early learning and child care facilities and public transit, where applicable. Inclusivity and access to services are part of the selection criteria on project submissions.

The mixed-income approach will decrease the number of households in core housing need, create more vibrant communities around the province and contribute to the financial sustainability of the non-profit and co-operative sectors.

Accessibility, Environmental Sustainability and Employment Benefits

SHC is committed to improving the accessibility of community housing for persons of all ages with physical disabilities. Building accessible units and adapting existing units allows tenants with disabilities to live safely and independently in their homes. After January 1, 2022, new construction projects must meet provisions of The Construction Codes Act, which repeals and replaces the Uniform Building and Accessibility Standards Act. New projects are also expected to meet local municipal targets, while renovations and adaptations must improve the accessibility of existing housing where appropriate and/or feasible.

SHC supports accessibility adaptations through repair, renovation and adaptation programs. These programs promote accessibility by providing financial assistance to repair or renovate a home, unit or building to increase accessibility or safety.

SHC requires that new construction and renovations meet provincial regulatory standards of energy efficiency. On January 1, 2019, the province adopted the National Energy Code for Buildings (2017). This code establishes the energy requirements for all new buildings and additions. Improvements to energy efficiency benefit SHC and low-income households through reduced utility costs.

Community housing projects, whether new construction or renovations, provide employment opportunities for housing contractors and construction trades workers. These projects also bolster the supply chain and can provide management and service jobs after construction is complete.

As part of housing project proposals, SHC strongly encourages proponents to work with apprentices to provide on-the-job training during the construction phase to equip Saskatchewan people with job skills and support personal and economic development. With the economic downturn and layoffs due to the COVID-19 pandemic, construction and repair projects implemented under the NHS will continue to create important employment opportunities across the province. SHC supports strategies that provide employment opportunities for people looking to develop skills and be more financially independent.

Saskatchewan Priorities and the Canada Community Housing Initiative will continue to support the development of housing projects that improve accessibility for people with disabilities, are energy efficient and promote skill development and employment benefits.

Stakeholder Feedback

SHC will continue to engage with stakeholders to gather feedback, both formal and informal, regarding the households in greatest need and the experiences of Saskatchewan citizens seeking affordable housing. Stakeholder feedback provides SHC with valuable information that helps identify and address risks and improve programs and policies.

SHC regularly engages with community partners, municipal governments and third-party groups. The Expression of Interest (EOI) process continues to be an important vehicle for finding and partnering on innovative local solutions. Submissions received through these processes inform the priorities of multiple programs, such as the Rental Development Program (RDP). The RDP provides funding to non-profit corporations, co-operative groups and the private sector to respond to community needs by building affordable rental housing projects for people who are vulnerable and/or have low incomes.

The EOI and stakeholder feedback from northern housing providers indicated an ongoing need to support individuals and families who are unable to find affordable housing in a region where homelessness and the risk of homelessness is predominant.

Other needs identified by stakeholders in Saskatchewan include housing for victims of interpersonal violence and households with low incomes facing affordability challenges, such as the working poor, large families, Indigenous people and vulnerable youth.

In 2021, over 1,300 residents participated in a stakeholder engagement process regarding the development of Accessibility Legislation in Saskatchewan. The need for high-quality, safe and affordable accessible housing was identified as an important step to removing barriers for people with disabilities. SHC engaged with a wide range of stakeholders from across the province to develop provincial strategies such as the Disability Strategy, Poverty Reduction Strategy and the Mental Health and Addictions Action Plan. Housing was identified as an integral part of these strategies.

SHC also gathers feedback from tenants, service providers and home builders and tracks and reports on tenant satisfaction rates and rental market trends. As well, SHC monitors internal programs, such as the number of government-funded housing units under agreement with CMHC. This data provides insight into the changing marketplace and measures the quality of housing and services.

These stakeholder engagements have informed this Action Plan and will continue to provide insight to meet housing needs now and in the future. Programs and funding offered through the initiatives will help address the concerns heard from stakeholders. SHC will continue to engage stakeholders when planning future investments in housing.

Section 2: Housing Initiatives

Funding under the Agreement will support the following eligible uses⁸:

- Increase Housing Supply: this may include new construction of or conversion to community housing;
- Preservation: this may include repair, renovation or adaptation of social housing, as well as regeneration of social housing; and
- Affordability Support: this may include rental assistance, shelter allowances, operating support and homeownership support.

These three initiatives of the NHS will continue to support SHC to provide individuals and families in housing need access to adequate and affordable housing. SHC's projects are inclusive and serve all vulnerable populations in the province, including women and children, Indigenous peoples, people having difficulty obtaining and retaining housing and people who are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless. Efforts will continue to be made to support people with disabilities by assisting in the repair or renovation of a home, unit or building.

During the course of this second Action Plan, SHC aims to preserve community housing through repair, renovation and adaptation, where appropriate, to ensure the longevity of existing units. SHC will encourage innovation in business practices and/or asset management to increase the sustainability of community housing and build the capacity of housing providers. SHC is focused on the long-term needs of the community housing portfolio and will focus support to maximize the viability of the units based on condition, need and functionality.

The following provides an overview of the three housing initiatives:

- Saskatchewan Priorities – Programs have the flexibility to support regional needs and priorities related to housing affordability, which may include housing repair and renewal, construction, affordability support and rental assistance.
- Canada Community Housing Initiative (CCHI) – Funding may be used to protect, regenerate and expand community housing and reduce housing need. This may be achieved through the repair or renewal of existing community housing, affordability support or the expansion of community-based housing.
- Canada Housing Benefit – Program provides affordability support to people in housing need; co-developed with the federal government and delivered by the province. This initiative came into effect in April 2020.

⁸ SHC will incur up to 10 per cent of the total funding to support administration costs of managing the initiatives and the corresponding programs under the NHS.

Housing Initiative 1: Saskatchewan Priorities

Support Housing Repair, Construction and Affordability

The funding under Saskatchewan Priorities supports regional needs and priorities. These can include housing repair, construction or affordability support. SHC is committed to improving access to safe, affordable homes. Through its partnerships, SHC will explore housing options that are affordable and allow easy access to health services, education, early learning and child care facilities, employment opportunities and public transit where available in the community.

The flexibility under Saskatchewan Priorities allows SHC to focus programs to address current housing needs and adapt programs to align with government priorities.

Provincial priorities include:

- Programming that supports provincial strategies and action plans (e.g. Saskatchewan's Growth Plan, the Disability Strategy, Mental Health and Addictions Action Plan and the Poverty Reduction Strategy);
- Affordable housing for those who have the greatest difficulty obtaining or maintaining suitable, adequate or affordable housing; and
- Flexibility to meet current and future housing needs.

SHC's existing housing programs remain relevant and suitable for meeting community housing needs and achieving the goals of the NHS. The programs are measured against provincial priorities to ensure they continue to align with Saskatchewan's economic and social environment and the needs of the province's most vulnerable people.

Saskatchewan Priorities provides a range of programs and initiatives to successfully increase the supply of affordable housing, improve housing affordability for vulnerable households, improve and preserve the quality of affordable housing and foster safe, independent living. This flexible approach allows SHC to respond appropriately to changes in the housing sector.

The following programs will be delivered under the Saskatchewan Priorities initiative:

1. Repairs

The Repair Program assists homeowners with low incomes, as well as owners of rental properties with tenants with low incomes, repair or adapt their homes. This program helps homes meet minimum health and safety standards, building codes and accessibility requirements. Adaptations are vital for people to live independently and safely in their own homes. The program also provides forgivable loans to help existing emergency shelter providers bring their buildings up to an acceptable level of health, safety and security standards.

2. Shelter Enhancement

The Shelter Enhancement Program assists victims fleeing inter-personal violence by providing new shelter spaces and maintaining existing shelters in good repair. The program provides financial assistance to service providers to increase the number of emergency shelters and second stage housing units available for victims of interpersonal violence and households in need. The program supports objectives for all levels of government, particularly Saskatchewan's Ministry of Justice, which provides operational funding to shelters.

3. Rental Development

The Rental Development Program provides funding to non-profit corporations, cooperative groups and the private sector to respond to community needs by building affordable rental housing projects for vulnerable people with low incomes. Each project proposal identifies gaps in service. Proposals are prioritized on how well the gap will be addressed. This may be done by promoting social inclusion through mixed-income or mixed-use housing and/or by assisting individuals and families in greatest housing need. The program recognizes that support for people not traditionally served by the private housing market is needed. These people may also have a physical disability, mental health issues, addictions issues and/or behavioural issues.

4. Investments in Homeownership

These investments will support homeownership opportunities for families with low incomes in core housing need in the province.

5. Saskatchewan Rental Supplements

These investments provide a supplement directly to eligible individuals to address core housing need by assisting with housing affordability, which is the greatest challenge in urban centres across the province. The supplement helps families with low-to-moderate incomes and individuals with disabilities access quality and affordable rental housing.

Housing Initiative 2: Canada Community Housing Initiative

Protection, Regeneration and Expansion of Community Housing and the Reduction of Housing Need

The Canada Community Housing Initiative (CCHI) may be used for the protection, regeneration and expansion of existing community housing. This may be achieved through repair or renewal of existing housing, affordability support or the expansion of community-based housing.

In the second Action Plan under the NHS, CCHI funding will be focused on capital improvements for community housing. SHC has developed a framework to evaluate community housing projects to determine where CCHI investments will have the maximum long-term impact. The focus of the investment will be to support client choice, promote independent living and maximize the rejuvenation impact on community housing so the province can continue to offer affordable housing to those in greatest housing need.

The priorities for investments will be initiatives that:

- Regenerate or replace housing owned by SHC or third-party organizations so the projects can continue to address future housing needs;
- Repurpose units/projects to support different client groups or household needs (e.g. housing for larger families and people experiencing difficulty obtaining or maintaining a home); and/or
- Create skill development and training opportunities where appropriate.

Housing Initiative 3: Canada Housing Benefit

Provide Affordability Support to People in Housing Need

The Saskatchewan Housing Benefit (SHB) offers a direct-to-household benefit that provides affordability support to renters with low incomes who are paying a high proportion of their incomes toward shelter costs. The province and the federal government partnered to co-develop the new program. The SHB is designed to align with Saskatchewan's housing priorities by assisting those in greatest need. It also aligns with federal NHS principles to support both vulnerable populations in housing need and the community housing sector. To complement support programs currently delivered by the Government of Saskatchewan, the SHB will serve clients who are not receiving another direct benefit that assists with housing.

The Benefit serves households with low incomes in housing need across three major groups: seniors, families and singles/other households without children. These households can face challenges obtaining or maintaining adequate, affordable and/or suitable housing. The program addresses the severity of housing need in Saskatchewan, which is currently higher than the national average. The Benefit assists with meeting the gap between actual rent and affordable rent to reduce housing need.

Eligibility for the program is simple and transparent. Eligible clients receive a flat benefit amount based on one-, two- and three-plus bedroom unit sizes. Similar household sizes receive the same benefit amount across the province, regardless of income, community or housing costs.

Benefits are portable across the province because they are not tied to a specific housing unit. Potential inflation in the rental market is mitigated as benefits are confidentially delivered direct-to-households.

Applications are accepted continuously through multiple access points and benefits are allocated on a first come-first served basis. Benefits are committed to households for one year, as long as minimum eligibility requirements continue to be met throughout that time. The SHB offers clear and simple ongoing reporting and eligibility requirements. Households are encouraged to improve their circumstances where possible and to plan for future housing decisions while receiving the benefit, with no immediate impact to their benefit.

It is anticipated that funding will increase over the life of the program and, as such, the program will adjust to future needs as resources allow. The SHB launched with eligibility criteria to support those in greatest housing need and has incrementally expanded to serve more households. SHC will continue to review the program and make further enhancements to identify additional opportunities where SHB can help successfully house those in need and meet Saskatchewan's housing objectives.

Section 3: Targets and Outcomes

Targets and measures provide a mechanism to understand how well SHC is doing and where changes could be made. When setting targets, SHC considers the current and future housing supply and takes into account the affordability of existing community housing, core need, equitable access and the needs of all households.

The federally-developed targets inform Saskatchewan's targets under the NHS. Cost- matched funding is determined through an annual budget process and will be finalized each fiscal year. Therefore, funding and targets are estimates, with actual funding and targets identified through the reporting process⁹.

SHC has agreed to the following targets, to be achieved over the life of the NHS agreement:

- 16,448 units continue to be offered in social housing, of which 12,813 will be available to address the needs of households with low incomes;
- No net loss of units designated as Indigenous. Of the total number of social housing units, 512 are designated as Indigenous housing; 249 of these units will remain available for households with low incomes;
- Develop new and innovative ways to regenerate housing to contribute to a 15 per cent expansion of units (2,467) above the baseline number (16,448 units¹⁰);
- Repair at least 20 per cent of the baseline number of social and community housing units (3,290) and;
- Approximately 10,169 households will be supported through the Saskatchewan Housing Benefit.

SHC is committed to meeting the 15 per cent expansion target and continues to explore strategies to be implemented over the life of the agreement. These strategies may include the development of new units, the replacement of older housing with newer housing and the re- commitment of existing community housing after the SHA obligations expire. Re-commitment of existing housing will be done through investments that modernize the housing portfolio and work in partnership with other levels of government and community-based organizations. This will reduce vacancy in underutilized units and ensure the housing stock continues to be sustainable and meets client needs.

SHC will provide a report on progress towards the goals and actions identified in this Action Plan on a biannual basis to CMHC. The progress reports will provide results for the expected targets and outcomes listed in the following tables, including but not limited to: the number of households for which housing needs have been addressed by initiative; the number of new and repaired/renewed housing units by housing type; and the number and percentage of new and repaired/renewed housing units considered accessible in a building as per the local or national building code.

Although attempts were made to ensure thorough planning, targets and funding may shift slightly, with CMHC's agreement, in response to Saskatchewan's economic environment and tenant needs.

⁹ Any unallocated eligible cost-matching incurred over the first three years of the NHS will be used in subsequent years to satisfy future cost-matching requirements.

¹⁰ The baseline number only includes units that were on a Social Housing Agreement as of March 31, 2019. The baseline number was agreed upon between SHC and CMHC as part of the bilateral agreement.

¹² No net loss of Indigenous housing units is a subset of the units that are continuing to be offered in social housing.

¹³ Indigenous housing units repaired to good condition are a subset of the 20 per cent of existing social housing units repaired.

¹⁴ The funding and corresponding units are based on the allowed cost-matched funding and do not reflect total expenditures of the program.

¹⁵ These numbers are estimates only and are subject to change based on actual program applicants and assistance levels. The units depict the number of unique households that are estimated to receive the benefit.
