Appendix*PART I[Section 6]Uniform Conditions of Carriage for General Merchandise Transport

- (1) In this Part:
  - (a) “carrier” means freight transporter;
  - (b) “delivering carrier” means the carrier who assumes responsibility for delivery of general merchandise to the consignee;
  - (c) “originating carrier” means the carrier who issues a bill of lading for general merchandise.
- (2) The custody and carriage of any general merchandise that come into the possession of a carrier for carriage and delivery by the carrier as freight are subject to the following terms and conditions that are to govern all relations of the shipper, consignee and carrier.
- (3) Subject to this Part, the carrier of the general merchandise described in the bill of lading is liable for any loss of or damage to the general merchandise accepted by the carrier or the carrier’s agent.
- (4) If a shipment is accepted for carriage by more than one carrier, the originating carrier and the delivering carrier, in addition to any other liability under these terms and conditions, are liable for any loss of or damage to the general merchandise while it is in the custody of any other carrier to whom the general merchandise is or has been delivered and from which liability the other carrier is not relieved.
- (5) The originating carrier or the delivering carrier, as the case may be, is entitled to recover from any other carrier to whom the general merchandise is or has been delivered the amount of the loss or damage that the originating carrier or delivering carrier, as the case may be, may be required to pay pursuant to these terms and conditions resulting from loss of or damage to the general merchandise while it was in the custody of that other carrier, and if shipments are interlined between carriers, settlement of concealed damage claims must be prorated on the basis of revenues received.
- (6) Nothing in subsection (4) or (5) deprives a consignor or consignee of any rights the consignor or consignee may have against any carrier.
- (7) The carrier is not liable:
  - (a) for loss, damage or delay to any of the goods described in the bill of lading caused by an act of God, the Crown’s or public enemies, riots, strikes, a defect or inherent vice in the goods, the act or default of the consignor, owner or consignee, authority of law or quarantine; or
  - (b) for differences in weights of grain, seed or other commodities caused by natural shrinkage.
- (8) No carrier is bound to transport the general merchandise by any particular vehicle or in time for any particular market or otherwise than with due dispatch, unless by agreement specifically endorsed on the bill of lading and signed by the parties to the agreement.

- (9) In the case of physical necessity where the carrier forwards the general merchandise by a conveyance that is not a licensed-for-hire vehicle, the liability of the carrier is the same as though the entire carriage were by licensed-for-hire vehicle.
- (10) If general merchandise is stopped and held in transit at the request of the party entitled to so request, the general merchandise is held at the risk of that party.
- (11) Subject to subsections (12) and (13), the amount of any loss or damage for which the carrier is liable, whether or not the loss or damage results from negligence, must be computed on the basis of the value of the general merchandise at the time and place of shipment including the freight and other charges if paid.
- (12) If a lower value than that mentioned in subsection (11) has been represented in writing by the consignor or has been agreed on, that lower value is the maximum liability for which the carrier is liable.
- (13) The amount of any loss or damage computed pursuant to subsections (11) and (12) is not to exceed $4.40/kg ($2 per pound) computed on the total weight of the shipment, unless a higher value is declared on the face of the bill of lading by the consignor.
- (14) If it is agreed that the general merchandise is carried at the risk of the consignor of the general merchandise, that agreement:
- (a) covers only those risks that are necessarily incidental to transportation; and
  - (b) does not relieve the carrier from liability for any loss or damage or delay that may result from any negligent act or omission of the carrier, the carrier's agents or the carrier's employees.
- (15) The onus is on the carrier to prove the absence of negligence.
- (16) No carrier is liable for loss, damage or delay to any general merchandise carried under the bill of lading unless:
- (a) notice of the loss, damage or delay setting out particulars of the origin, destination and date of shipment of the general merchandise and the estimated amount claimed with respect to the loss, damage or delay is given in writing to the originating carrier or the delivering carrier within:
    - (i) 60 days after the delivery of the general merchandise; or
    - (ii) in the case of failure to make delivery, within nine months after the date of shipment; and
  - (b) the final statement of the claim is filed within nine months from the date of shipment together with a copy of the paid freight bill.
- (17) No carrier is bound to carry any documents, specie or any articles of extra-ordinary value unless by a special agreement to do so, and, if they are carried without a special agreement and their nature is not disclosed in an agreement, the carrier is not liable for any loss or damage in excess of the maximum liability stipulated in subsection (13).
- (18) If required by the carrier, the freight and all other lawful charges accruing on the general merchandise must be paid before delivery and, if on inspection it is ascertained that the general merchandise shipped is not that described in the bill of lading, the freight charges must be paid on the general merchandise actually shipped, with any additional charges lawfully payable on the general merchandise.

(19) For the purposes of subsection (18), if a consignor fails to indicate that a shipment is to move prepaid or fails to indicate how the shipment is to move, the shipment is to move on a collect basis.

(20) Every person, whether as principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous goods without previous full disclosure to the carrier as required by law shall indemnify the carrier against all loss, damage or delay caused by the shipment, and the general merchandise may be warehoused at the consignor's risk and expense.

(21) If, through no fault of the carrier, the general merchandise cannot be delivered:

(a) the carrier shall immediately give notice to the consignor and consignee that delivery has not been made, and shall request disposal instructions; and

(b) pending receipt of disposal instructions pursuant to clause (a):

(i) the general merchandise may be stored in the warehouse of the carrier, subject to a reasonable charge for storage; or

(ii) if the carrier has notified the consignor of the carrier's intention to do so, the general merchandise may be removed to and stored in a public or licensed warehouse at the expense of the consignor, without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all freight and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage.

(22) If notice has been given by the carrier pursuant to subsection (21) and no disposal instructions have been received within 10 days after the date of sending the notice, the carrier may return to the consignor, at the consignor's expense, all undelivered shipments for which the notice has been given.

(23) Subject to subsection (24), any limitation on the carrier's liability on the bill of lading, and any alteration, addition or erasure in the bill of lading shall be signed or initialled by the consignor or the consignor's agent and the originating carrier or the originating carrier's agent and, unless signed and initialled, is without effect.

(24) The consignor has the responsibility to show correct shipping weight of the shipment on the bill of lading, and if the actual weight of the shipment does not agree with the weight shown on the bill of lading, the weight shown on the bill of lading is subject to correction by the carrier.

(25) Repealed. 14 May 2021 SR 49/2021 s15.

  - (d) in a conspicuous place, the name of the original contracting transporter and the original contracting transporter's telephone number;

- (e) the name of connecting transporters, if any;

  - (g) the name, address and telephone number of the consignee;
  - (h) the destination of the shipment;
  - (i) an inventory of the household goods composing the shipment, which may be attached to, and then becomes part of, the bill of lading.
- (5) Every bill of lading issued pursuant to this Part must contain:
- (a) a provision stipulating whether the household goods are received in apparent good order and condition, except as noted on the inventory;
  - (b) notwithstanding clause (a), a statement indicating that the signature of the consignee for receipt of the goods does not preclude future claim for loss or damage made within the time as specified by the bill of lading;
  - (c) a space to show the declared value of the shipment;
  - (d) a space to show the actual amount of freight and all other charges to be collected by the transporter;
  - (e) a statement to indicate that the uniform conditions of carriage apply;
  - (f) a space to note any special services or agreements between the contracting parties;
  - (g) a space to indicate date or period agreed to for delivery;
  - (h) a statement clearly setting out the extent of the transporter's liability; and
  - (i) a space for the signature of the consignor.
- (6) The transporter of the household goods described in the bill of lading is liable for any loss of or damage to the goods accepted by the transporter or the transporter's agent, except as provided in this Part.
- (7) If a shipment is accepted for carriage by more than one transporter, the original contracting transporter and the delivering transporter, in addition to any other liability, are liable jointly and severally for any loss of or damage to the household goods while they are in the custody of any other transporter to whom the household goods are or have been delivered, and the liability of the originating transporter and delivering transporter is not relieved.
- (8) The original contracting transporter or the delivering transporter, as the case may be, is entitled to recover from any other transporter to whom the goods are or have been delivered the amount of loss or damage that the originating contracting transporter or delivering transporter, as the case may be, may be required to pay resulting from any loss of or damage to the goods while they were in the custody of that other transporter.
- (9) Nothing in subsection (7) or (8) deprives a consignor or consignee of any rights the consignor or consignee may have against any transporter.
- (10) A transporter is not liable for:
- (a) loss of, damage to or delay of any of the household goods described in the bill of lading caused by an act of God, the Crown's or public enemies, riots, strikes, a defect or inherent vice in the goods, the act or default of the consignor, owner or consignee, authority of law or quarantine;

- (b) any of the following matters unless caused by the transporter's negligence or that of an employee or agent of the transporter:
- (i) damage to fragile articles that are not packed and unpacked by the contracting transporter, the transporter's agent or the transporter's employee;
  - (ii) damage to the mechanical, electronic or other operations of radios, phonographs, clocks, appliances, musical instruments and other equipment, irrespective of who packed or unpacked those articles, but if the preparation and servicing of those goods for shipment was undertaken by a party other than the original contracting transporter, the original contracting transporter's agent or the original contracting transporter's employee, no liability attaches to any transporter for any resulting inadequacies in the functioning of those goods;
  - (iii) deterioration of or damage to plants, pets or perishable food;
  - (iv) loss of contents of consignor packed articles, unless the containers used are opened for the transporter's inspection and articles are listed on the bill of lading and receipted for by the transporter;
- (c) damage to or loss of a complete set or unit of household goods when only part of that set is damaged or lost, and, in that event, the transporter is only liable for repair or recovering of the lost or damaged piece or pieces;
- (d) damage to the goods at place or places of pick up at which the consignor or the consignor's agent is not in attendance;
- (e) damage to the goods at place or places of delivery at which the consignee or his agent is not in attendance and cannot give receipt for goods delivered.
- (11) For the purposes of clause (10)(b), the onus is on the transporter to prove the absence of negligence.
- (12) At the time of acceptance of the contract, the original contracting transporter shall provide the consignor with a date or period within which delivery is to be made, and the failure by the transporter to effect delivery within the time specified on the face of the bill of lading renders the transporter liable for reasonable food and lodging expenses incurred by the consignee.
- (13) Failure by the consignee to accept delivery when tendered at or within the time specified on the bill of lading renders the consignee liable for reasonable storage in transit, handling and redelivery charges incurred by the transporter.
- (14) In case of physical necessity where the transporter forwards the household goods by a conveyance that is not a licensed-for-hire vehicle, the liability of the transporter is the same as though the entire carriage were by licensed-for-hire vehicle.
- (15) If household goods are stopped or held in transit at the request of the party entitled to so request, the goods are held at the risk of that party.
- (16) Subject to subsection (17), the amount of any loss or damage for which the transporter is liable, whether or not the loss or damage results from negligence of the transporter or the transporter's employees or agents, must be computed on the basis of the value of the lost or damaged article at the time and place of shipment.
- (17) The amount of any loss or damage computed pursuant to subsection (16) is not to exceed the greater of the value declared by the shipper or $4.41/kg computed on the total weight of the shipment, but, if the consignor releases the shipment to a value of $1.32/kg per article or less in writing, the amount of any loss or damage computed pursuant to subsection (16) is not to exceed that lower amount.

- (18) If the value declared by the shipper is $4.41/kg computed on the total weight of the shipment applies, additional charges to cover the additional coverage over $1.32/kg per article must be paid by the consignor.
- (19) If it is agreed that the goods are carried at the risk of the consignor of the household goods, that agreement:
- (a) covers only those risks that are necessarily incidental to transportation; and
  - (b) does not relieve the transporter from liability for any loss, damage or delay that may result from any negligent act or omission of the transporter, the transporter's agents or the transporter's employees or agents.
- (20) No transporter is liable for loss, damage or delay to any household goods carried under the bill of lading unless notice of the loss, damage or delay setting out particulars of the origin, destination and date of shipment of the goods and the estimated amount claimed with respect to the loss, damage or delay is given in writing to the original contracting transporter or the delivering transporter:
- (a) within 60 days after delivery of the goods; or
  - (b) in the case of failure to make delivery, within nine months after the date of shipment.
- (21) The final statement of the claim must be filed within nine months after the date of shipment.
- (22) Either the original contracting transporter or the delivering transporter, as the case may be, shall acknowledge receipt of claim within 30 days after receipt of the claim.
- (23) No transporter is bound to carry any documents, specie or any articles of extraordinary value unless by a special agreement to do so, and, if they are carried without a special agreement and their nature is not disclosed in an agreement, the transporter is not liable for any loss or damage.
- (24) If required by the transporter, the freight and all other lawful charges accruing on the goods must be paid before delivery, but, if the total actual charges exceed by more than 10% the total estimated charges, the consignee, subject to subsection (25), is to be allowed 15 days after the day on which the goods are delivered, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, to pay the amount by which the total actual charges exceed 110% of the total estimated charges.
- (25) The 15-day extension mentioned in subsection (24) does not apply if the transporter:
- (a) notifies the consignor of the total actual charges immediately after the goods are loaded; or
  - (b) receives a waiver of the extension provision signed by the consignor.
- (26) Every person, whether as principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous goods without previous full disclosure to the transporter as required by law, shall indemnify the transporter against all loss, damage or delay caused by those goods, and those goods may be warehoused at the consignor's risk and expense.

- (27) If, through no fault of the transporter, the goods cannot be delivered, the transporter shall immediately give notice to the consignor and consignee that delivery has not been made and shall request disposal instructions.
- (28) Pending the receipt of the disposal instructions mentioned in subsection (27):
- (a) the goods may be stored in the warehouse of the transporter, subject to a reasonable charge for storage; or
  - (b) if the transporter has notified the consignor of the transporter's intention, the goods may be removed to and stored in a public or licensed warehouse at the expense of the consignor without liability on the part of the transporter and subject to a lien for all freight and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage.
- (29) Subject to subsection (30), any additional limitation on the transporter's liability on the bill of lading and any alteration, addition or erasure on the bill of lading shall be signed or initialled by the consignor or the consignor's agent and the original contracting transporter or the original contracting transporter's agent and, unless signed and initialled, is without effect.
- (30) Subject to subsection (31), the original contracting transporter or the original contracting transporter's agent shall:
- (a) show the correct tare, gross and net weights on the bill of lading by use of a certified public scale; and
  - (b) attach the weigh scale ticket to the original contracting transporter's copy of the bill of lading.
- (31) If certified public scales are not available at the point where the household goods are delivered for shipment by the consignor, or at any point within a radius of 16 kilometres of that point, the original contracting transporter may use a constructive weight based on 112 kilograms per cubic metre of properly loaded van space.
