

Saskatchewan Distinguished Service Award Nomination Form

Established in 1997, the Saskatchewan Distinguished Service Award provides official recognition by the Government of Saskatchewan of persons from outside the province who have made significant contributions to the well being of Saskatchewan and its residents. The award was introduced to acknowledge the importance of international and inter-provincial relations to Saskatchewan's economy, culture and society.

Eligibility: Nominees must have made a significant contribution to the economic, social or cultural development of Saskatchewan and its people through leadership and personal activity. They must be either citizens of other countries, or Canadian citizens who reside in other provinces or territories of Canada. Former residents of Saskatchewan are eligible if the contribution for which they are being recognized has been made since their departure from the province. Representatives of organizations are eligible for the award but not the organizations themselves. Posthumous nominations are accepted within a year of the death of the nominee.

To nominate: Nominations for the award may be proposed by any ministry, agency or Crown corporation of the Government of Saskatchewan, or authority in which the government is a direct partner. An annual call for nominations is made. Please Email or mail the nomination form, transmittal letter from sponsoring organization, evidence of support from the minister, biography of nominee and evidence that the Canadian Embassy or High Commission in the nominee's country of residence has been consulted that the nominee is worthy of the award.
